I DID NOT GET LYME'S DISEASE. I GOT ALPHA GAL SYNDROME

Submitted By
Patsy Nelson
formerly of The Wagging Tail

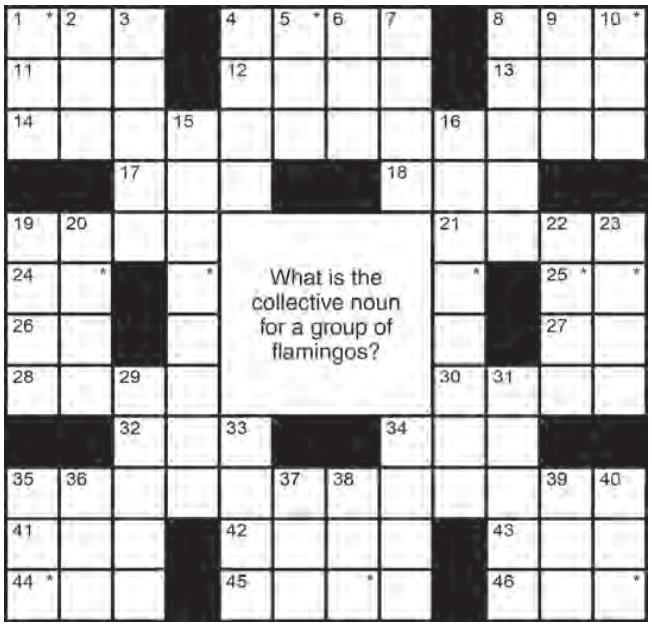

One disease that adversely affects the joints is Lyme disease caused by ticks. In September I pulled a tick head out of my stomach skin. It turned out to be a Lone Star Tick which causes AGS. See my articles on Facebook. Lyme's disease attacks both humans and dogs but it is not transmittable between species. It is transmitted from an infected black-legged tick, known also as the deer tick. Deer ticks usually affect rodents and birds, but the prey may also include white-footed mice, chipmunks, squirrels, voles, shrews and larger animals like raccoons, skunks, opossums-though how they transmit the disease varies-and white-tailed deer. A deer tick that has fed on the blood of an infected rodent or bird attaches itself to a human or dog and while they engorge on the blood of the host, its saliva enters the bloodstream. It takes about 24-48 hours for the process, so if you check your dog and yourself regularly and properly dislodge the tick just post-attachment there is less chance of infection. The only "safe" season is winter. New Jersey ranks high in Lyme's disease cases. Dogs that are companion hikers or frequent wooded areas are more susceptible. Ticks also like lawns, shrubs, long grasses, BEACH DUNES, and moist, shady areas like piles of leaves and stone walls.

90-95% of dogs may not show signs for five months after transmission, or never. A lot depends on the dog's immune system. Dogs with auto-immune diseases like Ebby and Zoey are at a higher risk. The infection left undetected or untreated can affect the joints, heart, brain and spinal cord. The most common is renal failure. Lyme disease was first identified in humans in Lyme, Connecticut, in 1975. Not until 1984 was the bacterium Borrelia burgdorferi officially identified as the cause in both people and pets. Because of its relatively new appearance, we, in general, were not as keen on recognizing the symptoms or understanding how to protect ourselves and our pets in the 80s. When my standard white poodle, Abby Road, was eleven and acted like her joints ached, I just assumed it was her age. And then she went into renal failure while I was away for the weekend. I got back in time to say goodbye. Losing Abby, as she went everywhere with me, including The Wagging Tail, was a heartbreak that remains to this day. Cats rarely get Lyme's and may not show any symptoms if they do. If your cat has a fever, joint pain, or loss of appetite, your vet may use antibiotics to avoid more serious complications.

The symptoms that dogs exhibit-which can be a sign of Lyme's-are numerous, including joint pain or swelling, lameness, lethargy, fever, decreased appetite, increased thirst and urination, diarrhea and vomiting. Vets today easily identify the disease. They also have prophylactic medicines such as Bravecto, NexGard and Simparica Trio. I mostly use monthly Frontline or Avantix. I also spray my yard with a pet safe flea and tick killing substance that easily attaches to the hose. It will come out as clear water when it is done. Repeat a few times during season.

Articles are also on my Facebook page, Patricia Robinson Nelson. I would love your comments. Email me at patsyrob1@gmail.com with concerns. THANK YOU!

This restaurant deserves five stars all around! The service was great. The atmosphere is quaint. But the food is definitely spot on. Everything from the appetizers right through to the dessert was amazing. No complaints had by anyone at the dinner table, and we went with a big group. I would definitely recommend if you're looking for a more luxurious meal.

FALL INTO FUN, SAFE ADVENTURE THIS AUTUMN

Months of summer travel don't just add miles to the odometer, they also quietly wear down vehicle components most drivers hardly notice.

Roof boxes, bicycles and fully loaded vehicles place additional stress on your suspension, brakes and tires. The load and wear makes a post-summer inspection crucial as autumn arrives.

"Months of hot weather and long-distance driving can place significant strain on a vehicle and expose issues that may have gone unnoticed," said Greg Brannon, director of automotive engineering at AAA.

How should you care for your car after busy summer travels? Find out more with the following maintenance checks to prepare your vehicle for the season ahead:

1. Restore tire performance

Monitor your tire pressure throughout autumn, as cooler temperatures can cause air pressure to drop. Properly inflated tires maximize tread life, improve fuel efficiency and provide better traction on wet autumn roads.

Don't forget to inspect your spare tire. Ensuring it's well inflated and in good condition can save you from being stranded if you experience a flat tire.

2. Test battery

Don't let a weak cause autumn anxiety. Get your charging system and battery life checked before cold days become as common as crimson leaves.

Have your service advisor check the charging system checked for signs of corrosion. Make sure the alternator is delivering the correct voltage to keep the battery fully charged. Change worn out components before autumn arrives to avoid an unexpected breakdown.

3. Replace air filters

Driven down dusty roads, through agricultural areas and past construction zones during the past three months?

Airborne particles accumulate on long drives, tend to clog your vehicle's engine air filter and restrict airflow to the engine.

Ask your service advisor to inspect your vehicle's air filter and cabin air filter. They are an inexpensive way to keep your vehicle operating in order to improve engine life, fuel efficiency and cabin health.

4. Adjust alignment

Is your vehicle steering a bit off? Could be a result of hitting a curb, pothole or road obstruction.

Time for an alignment check. This basic but important service extends tire life and improves your vehicle's on-road handling.

Some signs to look for: vehicle drifting to one side, uneven tire wearing a slight side pull on the steering wheel.
