HOROSCOPE

NOVEMBER 20 - 26, 2025

ARIES (Mar. 21- April 20)

The Sun enters your adventure sector this week, lighting a fire under long-stalled plans. Travel, study, or a bold leap of faith suddenly feels possible - and necessary. Stop waiting for perfect conditions. Momentum favors the one who moves first.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)

Intimacy deepens or a shared financial matter reaches a turning point. You're no longer willing to carry dead weight (emotional or literal). A calm, firm boundary now prevents a bigger mess later. Trust that saying "this far, no further" is an act of love - for yourself first.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)

Partnerships take center stage with the Sun illuminating your opposite sign. Someone reflects both your brilliance and your blind spots. Instead of debating, listen. The relationship that challenges you this week is probably the one that grows you need most.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)

Your daily routines, health habits, and work flow get a cosmic overhaul. Small upgrades compound fast - swap one draining habit for a nourishing one and watch the ripple effect. Efficiency isn't boring; right now it's your superpower.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22)

The spotlight swings back to joy, romance, creativity, and unapologetic self-expression. Whatever (or whoever) makes your heart race deserves stage time. Stop saving your best energy for "someday." This week is someday.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23)

Home and family dynamics shift in ways that finally feel supportive rather than suffocating. A conversation you've postponed can clear years of residue. Create the emotional space you crave - others will either step up or step aside.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)

Your words carry extra weight and reach. Contracts, pitches, sibling talks, or a heartfelt message could change the trajectory of the coming months. Speak as if everyone is listening - because this week, they actually are.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Money and self-worth align in a powerful way. A raise, new income stream, or smart investment opportunity appears when you decide you're worth more. Stop negotiating against yourself. Ask for the number that matches your value.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Happy solar return! The Sun in your sign reboots your entire year. You're shedding an old identity like a snake skin - don't cling. The bolder and more authentic you show up, the faster the right doors fly open.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22.- Jan. 20)

Rest, retreat, and behind-the-scenes healing are non-negotiable medicine right now. The quieter you go, the louder your intuition speaks. Tie up loose psychic ends before your birthday season begins - December belongs to a lighter, freer you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)

Your social circle and long-term dreams get energized. The right collaboration, community, or friendship lights you up like nothing else. Drop the groups and goals that feel stale. Your future is calling - and it has better Wi-Fi.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20)

Career, reputation, and public roles take a decisive step forward. Authority figures notice you, opportunities knock, and your name carries weight. Own your expertise without apology. The top of the mountain has room for your vision.

Help us kick off the Holiday season!
Christmas Tree-lighting Ceremony
Santa and his elves have decked out the Physick Estate at 1048
Washington Street with thousands of lights and holiday trimmings.
Enjoy a free performance of holiday classics by the John Walter Community Band as we join Santa in lighting the tree. Mallory's Eats will be serving hot chocolate and baked goods for purchase.

Swap from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. on November 22. Come out for a fun and sustainable way to clear out what no longer feels like "you" and discover a few new pieces that do. Participants are encouraged to bring a few gently-loved clothing items they're ready to part with and browse what others have brought.

Take what you love, leave what you don't — completely free! There are no limits and no pressure, just a simple, feel-good exchange. crestcoffeecompany.com

Turkey Trot

The TJ Hunt Turkey Trot, hosted by the TJ Hunt Memorial Foundation, will take place Thursday, November 27, 2025, at 9 a.m. at Crest Pier in Wildwood Crest, NJ. This Thanksgiving morning tradition welcomes runners and walkers of all ages for a fun, community-focused event honoring the life and legacy of TJ Hunt. Proceeds support the Foundation's mission to promote kindness, award scholarships, and assist families in need. 5K or a 1-mile walk. 609.780.4223 tjhuntmemorialfund.com

TRAVEL PREPAREDNESS FOR THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS

5. Fuel prep. Always maintain at least a half tank of gas to avoid running out during slow-moving traffic or when passing through rural areas with no filling stations. This also prevents water condensation in the tank which can affect engine performance in cold temperatures.
6. Keep engine cool. If your engine starts to overheat in traffic, turn off the A/C and run the heater to draw heat from the engine. You can also open the hood slightly during traffic delays or at a rest stop to let hot air escape quickly and help the engine cool down.
7. Be patient. Stress and frustration can cause you to brake or accelerate quickly when in a traffic jam. This strains your transmission, wears out your brake pads and increases fuel consumption. Staying calm behind the wheel prevents accidents and makes it less exhausting for you and passengers.
8. Maintain a safety buffer. Leave extra space between your car and the vehicle ahead to avoid stopping abruptly. Sudden stops gradually wear out your brake pads. Note that a fully loaded vehicle with passengers, food and luggage takes longer to stop. If you are carrying 1,000 pounds or more increase your stopping distance even further to brake safely.

FEAR/STARTLE BARKING

Submitted By
Patsy Nelson

Our dear neighbor's adopted granddaughter, now 19, persuaded her grandparents to buy a $1800 dachshund puppy, now a year and half of age. I will refer to him as Opie. He has lived a rather isolated existence; limited socialization involving mostly family. The teenage grandson also living with them, is friendly with another neighbor teenage boy, and Opie literally wants to tear him to pieces. It took me a little while to get him not to want to attack me. I tied Opie by his harness to a heavy table in their living room so that he was not (as usual) locked in the granddaughter's room where he barks and frets. And I used the PET CORRECTOR behavioral spray anytime he barked. (Constant barking drives the grandfather crazy.) Eventually Opie fell asleep. Frequent visits by me resulted in kisses and body rubs. When he hadn't seen me for a week, his first instinct was to bark and go for my ankles. Once he realized it was me, he went into a submissive tail wagging pose, and I was able to pick him up and give him kisses. The owner should have had the behavioral spray in hand because he responds very appropriately when it is used. At times all it takes is to show him the can, just like my two dogs. I am afraid the situation is going to escalate with him. Opie is afraid of everything, so I began walking him with Zoey to give him some confidence, but it is not done often enough to make a permanent lasting behavioral change.

The fear barker will usually slink back or sideways, have his tail low or between his legs, and flatten his ears. The best solution is to desensitize the dog to new people and new situations in a positive safe manner to increase the dog's confidence. Using a head collar like a Gentle Leader would be worth trying. I should have thought of that when we walked. I will ask them if we can try it. Unfortunately, like Zoey, Opie is not treat-oriented at all. Rewards for him must be tactile and verbal. If your dog always likes treats, that will be a big help in inducing change. The grandparents have always had bigger and people-friendly dogs. When Opie came into their lives, they had such a dog but lost him early this year. He never needed special socialization like Opie. I suggested they get a rescue like that which might make Opie, more passive and calmer, and perhaps be a doggy playmate for him. Zoey and Ebby tend to be barkers when they hear something we cannot hear that concerns them, or when someone comes to the door. But there is no aggression as there is with Opie. And when Zoey's more high-pitched barking gets on Bob's nerves, I put Zoey's no-bark collar on her, and she automatically becomes subdued. That is something I may ask to try on Opie. I am afraid that Opie's future is not looking hopeful unless there is more consistent intervention. Many owners lose patience and the pet becomes someone else's problem, or more severe or unpleasant repercussions ensue. Even abandonment.

I can be reached at patsyrob1@gmail.com. Say hello. I really miss seeing my regular customers who became like friends. I also still cut cat's nails-my home or yours.
